The Most Exclusive Reservation

OCEAN DRIVE TAKES YOU INSIDE THE MOST OVER-THE-TOP RESTAURANTS IN MIAMI'S NEWEST LUXURY DEVELOPMENTS. BY PAGE WATKINS

In the Magic City, it's not enough to live like royalty—we want to dine like royalty too. Luckily, Miami's latest developments are complete with ultraluxe (and ultraexclusive) restaurants that would impress even the royal family. Just take a trip north to Sunny Isles where Jade Signature's Beach Bar and Grill (jadesignaturecollection.com) serves organic, farm-to-table dishes created by chef Jean Jules with a side of stunning, panoramic oceanfront views. Our recommendation? The Galician octopus taco and the gluten-free filet mignon.

Next door, the Ritz-Carlton Residences (theresidences.sunnyislesbeach.com) features a variety of unique resortlike amenities: thermal vitality pool, outdoor massage garden and in-residence dining. That's right, you can have your own personal chef and sommelier work together to prepare and serve you the perfect dining experience right in the comfort of your own home. Farther south in the heart of Downtown, One Thousand Museum Residences (1000museum.com) by Zaha Hadid Architects has perhaps the toughest reservation in Miami—and for good reason.

The condominium's Sky Lounge is 62 floors up with floor-to-ceiling windows that provide the ultimate Miami #views. But it's not just the setting that makes it one of the hottest reservations in the city. The restaurant is helmed by famed chef Mame Sow, an NYC transplant whose résumé includes a stint at Norman Van Aken's Three in the Wynwood Arts District (aka you know anything and everything on the menu will be spectacular). Whatever dish you decide to try, make sure to finish it off with one of Sow's beloved Congo bar brownies.
